This circular route from Willersey takes in many lovely villages and viewpoints of the north Cotswolds, though we would certainly also recommend Blockley (a former silk mill town) and Chipping Campden (a former wool market town) as a nearby extension.

To drive the route non-stop only takes a couple of hours with total mileage less than 50 miles, though at a leisurely pace taking in the sights and atmosphere it can easily take the best part of a day.

Most of the route is using small 'B' roads and ungraded 'local' single track roads with passing places. Even in peak summer tourist times you will find these roads do not get very busy with traffic.

Before each of the following stages, the first number indicates the total distance travelled from Lowerfield Farm, and the second number the reference on the map.

3.0 2 Depart Broadway on B4632 (Cheltenham Road signposted Cheltenham and Winchcombe.

8.4 5 At the small Cotswold village of Stanway - if it is open you may wish to spend a couple of hours going round Stanway House, the home of Lord & Lady Neidpath or at least have a picture taken outside the very impressive gate house.
